Meteor on Way to Cowes in Tow of Torpedo Boat at Start of War.

SAVED BY LUCKY STORM

The German Emperor's racing schoone Meteor very nearly fell into the hands of the British. The Meteor and a German 15 meter yacht named Isabel-Alexandre were being towed to Cowes to race by a German torpedo boat. Cowes yachtweek was to have begun on August 10, and the yachts were being sent over in plenty of time to overhaul, and the Isabelten, in the Christiania Sound, was to get a new topmast before the races started. The torpedo boat was compelled to tow the two yachts into Emden because of stress of weather. After lying there a short time the captain of the torpedo boat short time the captain of the torpedo boat received a wireless instructing him to proceed to Cushaven at once with the two yachts. Had the weather been favorable the torpedo boat would have been to her string last week by winning constituting body in kennel affairs, severally constituting to her string last week by winning constituting body in kennel affairs, severally constituted to her string last week by winning constituting body in kennel affairs, severally constituting body in kennel a Lord, and they already have furnished plenty of sport. They can sail or go under power. If there is a good wind they race under miles an hour. Their models are most attractive, and they have proved good sea boats. They are planked with cedar & inch thick, and are stanchly built. George Granberry has purchased the thirty-one rater Timandra, which has been a successful racer in Eastern waters for several seasons. The Timandra is an Owen designed boat, and like all Owen yachts is fast in light weather. In the recent racing of the P class off Marble-head the Timandra in very light weather defeated the Josephine one day, and in another race in moderate winds she finished second. She is to come around the Cape at once, but it is too late for any class racing here. Mr. Granberry expects to have some fun until late in the fall with the Lloyds Harbor Club on its Saturday and Satu Saturday and Sunday runs.

The annual regatta of the handleap class will be sailed on Sunday, September

GREAT NEWFOUNDLAND DEAD.

Champion Gipsy Duke Was Fine Specimen of the Breed.

The death of the famous Newfoundland dog Champion Gipsy Duke on the other side will remind Americans that New-foundlands are few and far between in the United States. It is at the West-minster Kennel Club, New York, that every one expects to see the best dogs of all breeds in the country, but at the last event, in February, this year, there was not a single entry of the grand, noble and sagacious Newfoundland breed, either of the black or the white and black

The men who have brought, or are bringing forward this matter, are Theodore Offerman, John G. Bates, W. F. Patterson, George Ellis, Tyler Morse and Theodore Crane, all well known men in the American kennel world. They are desirous that cropping the ears of dogs should be stopped, and that no dog born on or after January 1, 1915, the ears of which have been cropped, shall be eligible for

That will be the last of the size of the sound this year, the season having a boar of the fall regatta of the Larchment Yacht Club will be salled. That will be the last of the size of th tips of the ears. It is well known that the long eared hounds, as exemplified in the bloodhound, otter hound, basset hound, harrier, French hounds and real old fashioned American foxhounds, particularly keen scented and that they can pick up the scent of their quarry from the very action of their ears trailing on the ground. To iron such ears probably American foxhound may account for his superior scenting powers under cold, stony and bad conditions in this country. Cropping terriers always has been a practice among understrappers in stables and cockney dog dealers. The former would and will operate on cats if there be no dog about and the dealer would crop a black and tan terrier so as to smarten him up, so to speak. Twenty-five years ago all Irish terriers were cropped, and the best of their kind in America and England had their lugs off and "up like darts." That term was then used one of the chief points of the Irish ! rier, and one Anglo-American writer, who now advocates the adoption of the non-cropping proposition of the A. K. in those times advanced the idea that

Irish terriers should remain cropped! Those dogs that have natural upears have strong bristlelike hairs ing up from the inside of the ears, and these bayonetlike hairs not only keep dirt from going in but the inside of the ear song and warm. Forgetting all these exquisite arrangements of nature the pres-ent day exhibitor of cropped Boston ter-riers, bull terriers and others scissors and afterward shaves out the hair from the inside of the slips of ears and thus discomforts. The hair inside of the ear may be noticed in all cock or spoon eared animals, especially in the case of the earthgoing species. It is certain that no terrier meant for serious work under ground should be cropped. The ear being exposed to falling earth would soon be a disadvantage to the dog.

The practice of cropping dogs has been general on the Continent of Europe.

There the mutilation even extends to Dalmatian dogs. For several years car cropping, with the exception of round-ing hounds ears, has not been recognized under the rules of the English Kennel Club, the first institution of its kind, and with which the American Kennel Club is now associated. If there was one man more than another who had s way in stopping the useless mutilation dogs it was King Edward, who liked dog as a companion when Prince of Wales. He used his influence to stop cropping and the Kennel Club was not slow to full into line. It did not take long before all cropped dogs were barred.

GREATEST SEALYHAMS ARE NOW IN AMERICA

Caradoc and Gessima Are Sure to Be Big Winners in Coming Shows.

With the increasing importations of Sealyham terriers purchased in England by W. Ross Proctor of New York, the quality is no way diminishing. On the Minnewaska on Monday there arrived the Sealyham terrier bitches Champion Gessima and Birkdale Bess. Gessima was to her sex on the other side what Ivo Caradoe was to his. Thus has Mr. Proctor obtained the two plums of the most expensive breed of terriers in England at the present time.

Champions Caradoe and Gessima have made more important history in their breed than any other brace of their kind known to dog owners on both sides of the Atlantic. Champion Gessima, purchased from Dr. A. Ireland, Birkdale, Shore-ham, near Sevenoaks, had won twenty first prizes and six championships suc-cessively at the leading shows in England nder recognized and acceptable judges before she left for her new home in the Brookwood Kennels.
Gessima's championship wins were

Gessima's championship wins were at Richmond, Shrewsbury, the Joint Ter-rier, Regents Park, London; Ladies Ken-nel Association, London; the National Terrier and at Havorfordwest. At the last mentioned town—the home of the breed—there were sixty-five entries in the open class for bitches, and these were judged by the veteran Harry Jones, were judged by the veteran Harry Jones, Peabill Wood, Hutton, Essex, Champion Gessima is of the famous Peer Gynt and out of Easton Frivol, bred by Mary, Duchess of Hamilton, Gessima is the dam of Arch Druid and sister to Easton Frigid, but of a different litter. Both Arch Druid and Easton Frigid are in Mr. Proctor's kennels. With her daughter, Birkdale Bess, Gessima in the brace class has never been defeated, and Gessima twice has been awarded the special prize for the best of her breed—dogs and bitches competing. and bitches competing.

Birkdale Bess also has been successful; she has had one litter and is now in whelp to Farncombe Tarrangon. It can now be easily understood that the bkwood Kennels will be able to send the best team of Sealyham terriers that ever has been seen and that Mr Proctor has kept his word that he to procure the best of their kin-ne could find in the British Isles.

Getting Rid of Fleas. are considerable complaints about dogs and other pets suffering at this time of the year from the presence a bit of use dressing a dog to rid him of these parasites unless the kennel or the place where he is kept is scrupulously clean, disinfected and scrubbed. The fleas breed in the kennel and similar place and on the clean dog they at orce find a happy hunting ground. It is advisable to wash out the cracks in the floors, the sides and roofs of the kennels, with a solution of some strong disinfectant. Whatever insecticide is used it is recommended that its application should be re-peated several times to insure perfect eradication of the pest.

This will be better understood if a brief sketch of the life history of the lively little creature is given. The flea underong the leather of the ear instead of penetrating the orifice of the organ, which would be the case if the cartilage of the ear had been removed.

It has been a custom to round or iron the ears of foxhounds. This practice is in great vogue at the present time in England, and hounds with ironed ears of the England, and hounds with ironed ears of the England.
